

Stables Bar wins Derby CAMRA Pub of the Year for second time - Babington takes city award

The Leadmill Brewery tap, the Old Stables Bar at Park Hall Lane, Derby (above) has been voted Derby CAMRA Branch Pub of the Year for the second year in succession. It won both the Country POTY and the overall vote too. The City POTY for 2005 is the Babington Arms in Babington Lane.

The pubs were chosen from a strong field of final candidates which all scored highly in the judging. The runners-up were the Rowditch, Flowerpot, Old Oak (Horsley Woodhouse), King William IV (Milford) and the Barley Mow (Kirk Ireton).

Lead mill brewer Richard Creighton said of to win the City Pub of the Year, especially in an area with a good spread of ale pubs. Many of these ventures have become regarded as somewhat identikit pubs as they have spread far and wide over the past decade, but Tom Taylor (right) is no ordinary Wetherpoons licensee.

Every week is a beer festival at bargain prices and Wyre Piddle beers are permanently featured here. Tom also shares two of this editors loves in his taste for real ale and punk rock and has bucked the system in a major style at his Wetherspoons pub. The group, however, are appreciative of Tom's success and leave him to run the Babington his way. "I am passionate about real ale" says Tom, "And I couldn't operate the pub in any other fashion".

It is certainly some achievement for a Wetherspoons pub

The Babington has a Mild May festival week from 2nd to 8th May, followed by the national Wetherspoons festival from 9th to 22nd May featuring 50-plus ales.

To celebrate Tom's recognition local brewer Trevor Harris got together with him to brew Taylor's Tipple a 4.6% beer from Derby Brewing Company (see pumpclip).

PUB NEWS

Cask beer is thriving at the Navigation on London Road, Wilmorton, where licensee Alan Dickson has introduced guests such as Adnams Broadside into this once keg pub. Worth a visit. Adnams Bitter also pops up at the Kestrel in Marehay. Mild is back at the Woodlark, where Adam Atkin (ex-Maypole) has taken the helm. Theakston Mild at a bargain £1.60 a pint is a permanent beer alongside Pedigree and Bass. Guests may follow if demand merits. real ale has returned at the Brick & Tile on Brick Street after a lengthy absence. Pedigree has been available since late March and this may bode well in respect of the other keg Burtonwood pubs in the area now under the W&D regime. The Plough at Weston-on-Trent has new owners in the form of Fiona and Andrew West-Hunt, there is a connection with the Spotted Cow at Holbrook. Good news on Duffield Road in the city where Everards have purchased the Five Lamps pub, part of over 20 outlets they have bought recently. Everards are always a good bet for cask beers in their pubs so an ale gain seems probable. The Thorn Tree at Woodlinkin reopened on 13th March. The Fleet Tavern is closed and the Moon, Spondon is boarded up.

The Derby CAMRA Beer Festival donated a cheque for £750 to the Mayor's Charity in the Mayors' Parlour.

Additionally the Derby CAMRA 2005 Winter-Fest raised £500 for the Tsunami Appeal in February.

28th Derby Beer Festival - July 6th-10th 2005

It is one of the biggest festivals in the country and we always find an interesting piece of Derby heritage to celebrate. This year, our 28th festival will again be 'Bridging the years' and commemorating the bicentenary of Andrew Handyside, the 'King of Iron' who built the Friar Gate Bridge and many other notable structures.

He took charge of the Britannia Foundry in Derby and its elaborate ironworks were commissioned here all over the world. His work includes Trent Bridge in Nottingham, the ironwork of Liverpool and Manchester railway stations, and the great roof-ribs of Olympia, home of the Great British Beer Festival.

Truly an influential man who lived most of his adult life in Derby.

As the week of our festival is also Veteran's Awareness Week, following the commemoration of VE Day on 24th June, we could not let this pass without a special event. We are organising a Veteran's Lunchtime on Thursday 7th the appropriate music, flags and a warm welcome for all war veterans.

The opening ceremony is also being modified this year to make it a more public event on the first night bringing us closer to our customers. The Mayor, the Festival Chairman and the Derby Beer King will all be in attendance.

The festival is also bridging the years in the entertainment programme this year by bringing one of the original soul men - Geno Washington to the Derby festival stage on the Thursday evening. He is sponsored by Finnis Hotels and is a live act that really projects to the audience.

Geno has played all over the world with many famous musicians and is an artist not to be missed. On the Saturday evening Jean Genie will be taking us through the golden years of David Bowie, whilst the aforementioned Thursday lunch features some of those unforgettable World War Two songs.

What a festival, like you all I can hardly wait.

Your Health - Your Voice

What do you think of your Doctor, your pharmacist, your hospital? Are you happy with the care you receive?

Everyone has something to say about health and health services. The Patient and Public Involvement Forums are here to find out what people really think and to take action.

The aim of the independent Patient and Public Involvement Forums, made up of local people, is to enable patients and the public to influence the day-to-day operations of the health service, and address wider public health issues, from diabetes to MRSA infection, from smoking in public places to mental health.

There are PPI Forums throughout England, with the Carers Federation support office in Derby supporting 7 Derbyshire Forums for Central Derby, Greater Derby, Derby Hospitals, Derbyshire Mental Health Services, Amber Valley, Derbyshire Dales & South Derbyshire and Erewash.

It's exciting. But they will only be truly effective if people tell them about issues that concern them.

Your Forum Needs YOU

We are continually recruiting forum members - everyone is welcome! Log on now to website: www.ppi.org.uk to see how you can join those who are already making a difference.

Two local microbrewers pictured enjoying themselves at the Derby Winter-Fest in February. Edward Allingham of Leatherbritches and Dave Tizard of Funfair toast the giant Budweiser bottle at the fair in Derby Market Place, which coincided with the CAMRA festival. With dodgems and waltzers at the fair, it looked as if Dave's pump-clips had come to life in the form of a festive backdrop!

Easter cheer at Makeney festival

The Holly Bush Inn at Makeney held its customary Easter Beer Festival at the end of March. Things went so well at the event that much of the ale was running out after Good Friday and Andy had to send for extra supplies from Tower Brewery at Burton to ensure the drinkers were refreshed throughout. The pub also provided an early taste of the new Bakewell Bitter.

Healthy beer scene at Smalley

The village of Smalley has long boasted some of the best ale choice in our area, with the Bell Inn championing local microbrews, up to seven or eight at a time.

There are however two pubs in the village and the Nags Head has been doing its bit to keep the standards high for quite a while.

Landlord Ian Wood, himself once of the Bell, has Pedigree,

Directors and Bass plus guest ales in fine fettle. You may even be surprised to see other beers with a little luck as a Derby-based Shakespearean micro has had some prominence lately, amongst others!

The Nags has a real fire, traditional skittle alley, is family-friendly and boasts hot pies and is certainly worth a call for a tasty beverage.

Where the wild hops grow - 2

The caption competition photograph of hops growing around a telegraph pole in DD 103 prompted Derby CAMRA member Mike Williams to pen this reply:

For many years the most prolific source of wild hops was on Haslams Lane. The north hedge on the eastern bank of the Derwent between Mansfield Road and Darley Abbey Mills was always covered in wild hops come autumn.

This free source of hop was used by generations of home brewers (and one micro-brewery!). This source was destroyed only recently, when the land was purchased by Derby Rugby Club - who ripped out the mature hedge and replaced it with a post and rail fence.

Like so many charming things, a case of Here Today Gone Tomorrow - Ed.

A different kind of spirit at the Falstaff

As reported in the local media lately, Normanton brewpub the Falstaff has a claim to being one of Britain's most haunted pubs.

The Ghost Club Society UK descended upon the Silverhill Road pub and "All of the group were convinced that the pub is haunted with more than one presence. Energy orbs were picked up on two cameras in the same place."

The next high-profile Psychic detectives to hit town are CE Paranormal on 24th April. They organise "Fright Nights" including locally one at Tutbury Castle which attracted 70,000 ghost hunters. They promise to bring lots of equipment with them.

Licensee and brewer Jim Hallows himself was a complete cynic about this sort of thing at one time, but has now become convinced that the supernatural behaviour in the Falstaff is not always connected to copious consumption of the brewery's strong brews!

Cask ales flowing on the banks of the Dove

Things are looking good on the Derbyshire/Staffordshire borders in the form of the Okeover Arms at Mappleton near Dovedale and about two miles north-west of Ashbourne. The licensee John Bannard with his daughter Selena and her partner Jason Surguy, have improved the beer choice and quality in a relatively short space of time.

Jason told me that they are keeping four ales at all times and on my visit there was Tim Taylor Landlord, Black Sheep bitter, Springhead Roaring Meg, Old Hooky and some extremely tasty Nottingham Brewery Dreadnought, direct from the cask. Local brew Leatherbitches Hairy Helmet has also been on sale.

Two years ago however, it looked as if Mappleton village may lose its old inn, as many settlements unfortunately have in recent times, resulting in lost focal points in lots of communities. The Okeover was closed for nine months due to subsidence and drainage problems. Thankfully it reopened in December 2003 although Jason and the Bannards inherited their predecessors architectural reaping. The two rooms had been knocked through, copper bar replaced and an old fire had been ripped out. As Jason says "We can't do much about that now but we took over a pub with a reputation for good food that we have continued, and we wanted to expand the cask ales as well." Vegetarians and celiacs are catered for on an extensive and changing food menu in this family-friendly pub.

The Okeover has a rich history. The Lords of Okeover Hall, half a mile away over the River Dove and the Staffordshire border, own the pub. The have been in their seat for over 700 years. The pub opened as the Griffin Inn in 1754 and took its current name in 1846. From 1890 to 1962 saw a dark period as a temperance inn following a disturbance. In February 1961 Sir In Walker-Okeover applied for relicensing and the Okeover Arms reopened after 72 long dry years in December 1962 with Sir In pulling the first pint of the twentieth century. It hasn't looked back and we can certainly see no real ale drought in the foreseeable future.

Thanks once more to local Cask Marque assessor, Peter Tulloch for providing these details. More updates will follow in subsequent issues.

Derby beers on Broadway

Trevor Harris at Derby Brewery has landed a coup with his production of a special beer for the Broadway Hotel, Darley Abbey. The beer is a 4.5% called The Broadway and was launched on 16th April, replacing London Pride on the bar of the recently refurbished pub.

Chris at the Broadway is mad about his real ales and was keen to put something like this on, whilst Ember Inns have lately decided to focus on 'local' and the deal has been made possible with the assistance of Beer Seller, who are facilitating the Direct Delivery system, allowing Trevor to deliver personally to the pub.

The whole of the Enterprise estate is opening up to this scheme, allowing brewers to approach licensees who then co-ordinate with pubcos and SIBA to enable greater choice of local beers in chain pubs. Other pubcos may well follow suit. In the meantime we can regular sample beers from the city's eponymous brewery, a great addition to Derby's spread of ale choice.

Big Screen TV System

Big screen TV system comes complete with a five foot wide pull down screen, 30 watt mixer/amplifier, highspeed video player, twin speakers, single lens Davis projector and cables.

Cost £3500 will accept £2200

Also available is a Lincat Super Chef grill for just £100.

FALSTAFF

The pub has a Much Ado About Mayday beer festival running from 28th April to 5th May, with 20 ales. Four Coffins may reappear along with hopefully the first brew from Danelaw and a Funfair ale. Beers produced for the Babington include Invader, Galeaxion and Hoppy, while the Shakespeare themed beers continue with Taming of the Brew and King Duncan's Ghost. For May there could be two milds brewed and a beer named John Falstaff. In the next few weeks Jim will be triple brewing in a 15-barrel plant. Brewery tankards are to be available and they are exporting T-Shirts to Canada!

DANELAW

The Chellaston brewery is stirring into life with their First Brew, a 4.5% bitter, taking place in early April. Nine casks are set to hit a few venues shortly and it is good to see Paul Martin and Steve Twells venture up and running.

BRUNSWICK

A new beer called Brunswick Bitter a permanent addition to the range. The brew is a 3.7% offering containing a small amount of crystal malt. Brunswick are also brewing a beer to coincide with this summer's Ashes test series. The 4.2% Warne's Out will contain a small percentage of roasted malted wheat.

DERBY BREWING CO

Trevor Harris continues to thrive with the brewery and his latest beers are dark for May. Dark Delight 4.3% and Over The Hill at 4.8%. See also left article.

JOHN THOMPSON

The Summer Gold is on for the season and in fine fettle. Our best wishes for a speedy recovery go out to Nick Thompson who was involved in a motoring accident a few weeks ago. He has made a great impression since taking on the reins at the JT and is doing much of the brewing. Get well soon Nick.

FUNFAIR

Dave Tizard's relocation to Ilkeston is progressing and he has been working on new recipes, one beer will be Speedway, a 4.1% pale ale.

HAYWOOD

The Callow Top enterprise resumed brewing for Easter and from now on intends to brew all year round. Dr Samuel Johnson will be available as a bottled-conditioned beer from the spring.

LEADMILL

Richard Creighton has continued his ever-expanding list of brews in the early part of 2005 with Interstate 95, a 4.4% beer, the 4.3% Deadend Job and the similar strength Crafty Stackrat.

LEATHERBRITCHES

The brewlength has been increased to 14 bbl. as new vessels have been installed. The brewery is supplying the fruit beer Blue, to France in response to a successful stand at a French food and drink show. The 11th Peak Booze and Blues event takes place at the Spring Bank Holiday.

WICKED HATHERN

The Derby Road brewery beers have been featuring in two east of Derby villages. The Royal Oak at Ockbrook are frequent customers as are the Harrington, Thulston where Cockfighter went down swingingly. The editors fellow bar-room raconteur Mr Hughes (regular episodes every Monday) claimed to have drunk most of it but villager Mick had a different opinion.

More real ale set for Tramway Museum

Crich Tramway Village will once again be running a real Ale bar at certain events throughout the year. CAMRA members now get reduced admission to the museum any open day on production of a valid membership card.

Over the last few years the Red Lion pub has been rebuilt at the Crich site, originally it stood in Stoke-on-Trent.

The pub has been trading mostly on bottled beers with Real Ale on special weekends. From humble beginnings as occasional bars for tramway members these bars have developed into a popular part of the special events programme at the museum and 18 nines were sold at the August 2004 Forties event.

Now they are looking to offer cask ale for much of the year. The beers come mostly from Leadmill, who have been very supportive, but there will be other local micros available too, so why not get the family on a tram and then into the Red Lion for some traditional refreshments.

Record 138 ales on City Beer Census...

The annual Derby City Beer Census took place in February and a record number of different real ales - a mighty 138 were recorded from 75 pubs, well up on the 2004 total.

Five pubs were found to be devoid of any cask ale and the most beers were at the Flowerpot (26), Babington (17) and Brunswick (16). Pedigree is again the dominant beer, it is available in more than 80 pubs citywide, with Bass recorded in 28.

Several CAMRA members led crawls which all met up in the Flowerpot at 10.30pm to tally up the beers. This has become one of the best Derby CAMRA social events of the year outside of the beer festivals and is well supported and lively. It is also a great way to keep tabs on what's happening in some different pubs to one's locals. Look out for next year's event as we look towards the 150 beers mark.

Your editor was accompanied by a diverse group of activists from the paramilitary wing of CAMRA and his number briefly included two aliens clad in silver and orange in Bill Grundy's on Ashbourne Road. You really had to be there.
